

Jazz guitarist Benno Marmur is a highly sought after music educator and performer based in New York City. Benno regularly performs throughout New York at venues such as St. Peter's Church, Bar Next Door, the 75 Club, Baha'i Center, and Cleopatra's Needle. He has had the opportunity to play alongside jazz legends such as Grant Stewart, Jimmy Madison, Warren Chiasson, and Fukushima Tainaka, among others. Recently, Benno was featured as part of vibraphonist Warren Chiasson's Tribute to Chet Baker at St. Peter's Church.

In addition to his active performance career, Benno maintains a rigorous schedule of private and group lessons working with students of all of all ages, levels, and styles. Developing in all students a love and passion for music as at the root of Benno's teaching. Benno has taught at institutions such as the Music School of Westchester, Mouzert Music Academy, 92nd Street Y School of Music, and the New York Public Schools. Benno holds a bachelor's degree in guitar performance from Purchase College Conservatory of Music.